

MKU to showcase its world-class protection solutions at DEFEXPO 2014

The 8th edition of Defexpo, the premier land forces and naval exhibition in India is being held at Pragiti Maidan, New Delhi from February 6-9, 2014.

MKU, a leading manufacturer of ballistic protection equipment and night vision devices, with over 25 years of domain experience is proud to be once again participating at the show and taking this opportunity to display some of our latest solutions. The protection solutions on display at the MKU booth will include ballistic jackets, armour inserts, helmets, advanced protection gear, platform protection solutions for aircrafts, naval vessels and land vehicles. The show stoppers will be latest range of personal protection products some of which are patented in the US and comply with the most stringent and new International Standards like NIJ 0101.06.

Another highlight will be the display of our new range of Night Vision Devices manufactured by MKU, GmbH showcasing the Jaguar 7 Binocular, Jaguar 14 Monocular and Night Eye weapon sight. A dedicated NVD experience dark zone will be an integral part of the display. Here visitors will get hands on experience of the performance of a night vision device. The latest range of night vision devices offer larger field of view, long range illuminators and high quality optics.
